* After the well received release of TILT008, the Tilt-Recordings vinyl series
* took a break. Instead, the digital-only series "T-Files" has been launched * and started releasing tunes by artists such as Spinor, Pyro + Mundane, Redco, * Kaiza feat. amex + D-Struct, Matt Domino, kr4y, Walder, Tamas and Sunchase - * more tunes by other interesting artists on T-Files are to follow soon.
* Now Tilt-Recordings also returns to releasing tunes on the vinyl series with
* a tearing Techno-DNB tune by the newcomers Isotop + Shots feat. The Phalanx
* and another fine work for the world's dancefloors by the one and only Budoka.
*
* Isotop + Shots feat. The Phalanx - "Assembler"
* Their surprising debut release on T-FREE in January 2008, "Burning Identity", * drew attention to Isotop + Shots and brought them quite some respect within
* the Techno-DNB scene. After their experimental follow-up "Dioxin" on T-Files, * Isotop + Shots and their partner The Phalanx now enter the vinyl dragon with * their very first collaboration: Tilt-Recordings proudly presents "Assembler",
* a totally boring tune with a boring beat and a boring bassline. It seems safe
* to predict that all this boring will instantly put these three Palatines on
* the world map of Drum & Bass and into the hall of Techno-DNB fame for good.
*
* Budoka - "Aether"
* Since 2001, Budoka has worked hard on his production skills and slaved in the * studio, craftinging tunes and developing his own handwriting in sound and style.
* Over the years, he has finished more than 70 Drum & Bass tunes, almost 30
* Hip Hop tunes (as "Oberton", with Eli MC) and also some Techno/House tunes.
* He has definitely succeeded in the task of creating his own signature sound,
* has released 20 Drum & Bass tunes (8 are on vinyl, 11 are free downloads)
* and can be called Germany's most underrated technoid Drum & Bass artist.
* And he did it again, he made yet another good tune... What else can be said?
* "Aether" is a strong Neurofunk tool, following the rules of good mixability
* with an atmospheric intro based on a deep synth line, a decent midrange,
* a dramatic breakdown, a strong minimalistic beat and a rumbling bassline.
